

Integration of Mythology Worksheet

May be submitted in person or via email to morenasangre@gmail.com or neeldw@cf.edu

After taking this course, you should be able to answer the 5 questions below. I expect the answers to be your own thoughts and your own words. The answers should be framed as little essays – they should have a beginning, middle, and end. The answers should be clear, logical, and easy for your teacher to follow; they should reflect an understanding of the course material we've covered this semester. At the bottom of your worksheet, please include a word count, since this contributes to your Gordon rule count.

Why are mythologies around throughout history? Why does humanity cling to mythic stuff?

Where do you think mythology is most visible in our day and age?

Is knowing this mythology stuff useful anywhere in modern life? Why is it useful, or why is it not useful?

What is your favorite myth (whether we've explored it or not in class)? Why does that one appeal to you?

What one idea or concept will you carry with you from this class?
